With the 17 pilot alliances being halfway through the implementation of their Erasmus+ "European Universities" projects, the conference aims at discussing the state of development of the alliances' collaborative education models: what activities and programmes the alliances are succeeding in setting up, what new teaching methods and learning pathways are being piloted, what kind of changes and creative solutions they applied in order to adapt to the Covid-19 pandemic crisis and to institutional differences, and finally, what are the challenges and obstacles they see for the further realisation of their educational strategies.

FOR WHOM:

staff and student representatives of European University alliances, representatives of the European Commission, ministries and higher education organisations and anyone else interested in the "European Universities" initiative
