
Place and Space in Contemporary English-Written Literatures

Place and Space in Contemporary English-Written Literatures

The Department of English Language and Literature hosts an international literary conference entitled "Place and Space in Contemporary English-Written Literatures". The language of the conference is English.

For further information please see the department's website.