

---

Lecture by Alina von Davier

---

Lecture by Alina von Davier

Artificial intelligence is significantly transforming not only scientific research but also its practical applications in society. The lecture focuses on the role of AI in education and knowledge assessment, using the example of language proficiency testing. It will show how advances in machine learning, natural language processing, and generative AI enable more adaptive, accessible, and realistic ways of assessing complex human skills.

More information about the speaker and the abstract of the lecture can be found here .

Please register via the Registration form .

Institute of Computer Science
Czech Academy of Sciences

STRATEGYAV21

Artificial Intelligence
for Science and Society

FACU
Institute and D Charl

Lecture by Alina von Davier

ASSESSING HUMAN SKILLS IN THE AGE OF AI

March 20, 10:00 a.m.

Czech Academy of Sciences, Národní 4
Conference Hall 205

